Mayor Dagur Eggertsson
City of Reykjavik, Iceland

Dear Mayor Eggertsson:

I'm delighted to invite you to our seventh annual CityLab: Urban Solutions to Global Challenges in Washington, D.C. on October 27-29, 2019. In particular, we would be honored if you joined us for the Mayors Innovation Studio, an off-the-record event for mayors that will kick off the convening on Sunday, October 27. All mayors who participated in the Bloomberg Harvard City Leadership Initiative during its first two years are invited to this exciting convening, as well as other newly elected mayors from across the globe. In conjunction with other CityLab activities, we will also plan a special reunion for Bloomberg Harvard City Leadership Initiative alumni and will circulate those details in the coming weeks.

The Mayors Innovation Studio is an exclusive day-long event that provides mayors with a unique opportunity to connect with other mayors and hear from one another about strategies to build a culture of innovation in cities. This year's Mayors Innovation Studio will focus on the pressing topic of economic mobility. After the event ends on Sunday afternoon, mayors are invited to join me for a private dinner with special guests.

Hosted by the Aspen Institute, The Atlantic, and Bloomberg Philanthropies, CityLab 2019 will bring together some of the world's most creative mayors, artists, academics, funders, and public- and private-sector leaders focused on improving cities. Last year, more than 500 participants joined us in Detroit to discuss the latest solutions to city challenges. With Washington, D.C. as our backdrop and Mayor Muriel Bowser as our host, this year's event will surely be a great success and focus on important topics such as inclusive growth.

We hope you will take part in both the Mayors Innovation Studio and CityLab's programming, which includes plenary and breakout sessions with inspiring leaders focused on improving global cities, networking opportunities, and guided field trips. This highly curated content is designed to equip mayors and participants with new ideas to bring back and apply to local challenges.

The cost of travel, lodging, and most meals while attending CityLab will be covered by the Aspen Institute. Public officials, including any employee of a government entity, should consult applicable rules and regulations to ensure that their attendance (including the acceptance of related costs) complies. Our team would be happy to answer any questions you may have. Please note that attendance is required beginning on the morning of Sunday, October 27 so travel may need to occur the evening of Saturday, October 26. There is limited space at this invitation-only event, so please RSVP by Friday, June 7, 2019.

I hope that you will join us for our Mayors Innovation Studio and CityLab. To RSVP, please reach out to Chardee Mendoza at chardee@bloomberg.org or (212) 205-0150.

I look forward to seeing you in October.

Sincerely,

Michael R. Bloomberg
